The Plan

Most Tuesdays for the first 35 minutes I will answer your questions about homework and will then give you a 15 minute quiz (closed book, no electronic aid devices) on the material covered in previous week of lecture. The quizzes will be used to compute your Math 231 grade as described in the syllabus. On those Tuesdays that are the day before an exam, there will be no quiz and class will be devoted to review for the exam.

Each Thursday I will give you a worksheet on the material that has recently been covered in lecture for you to work on in small groups and walk around the classroom helping individual groups.

Expectations

I expect you to attend every class and participate regularly. Calculus takes effort to learn and you will only get as much out of the course as you put into it. I will do my best to help you succeed. Do the assigned homework regularly. There is strong correlation between succeeding in this course and completing the assigned homework in a regular and timely fashion.

Course Websites

The website for the lecture is <http://www.math.uiuc.edu/~jarouse/teaching/S2010/m231/>. You should check this website regularly for announcements and homework assignments from Jeremy.

The website for the discussion section is <http://www.math.uiuc.edu/~jsinick2/teachings10.html>. I will post the quizzes and worksheets that I give you on this website.
